Iron Works, Mills, & Valuable Lands

FOR SALE.

THE subscriber offers for sale the well known Malbro' Iron Works, situate in Frederick county, State of Virginia, adjacent to which are 8,500 acres of Land which he will also sell with or without the works, The said Mills and Iron Works are situated on Cedar Creek a large and never failing stream which is applied to working the Forge. The Furnace, Merchant, Grist and Saw Mills are worked by the water of the big spring which arises at the distance of about 1-4 of a mile from the Mills and Furnance and is more than sufficient for the aforesaid purposes. The command of water from those two streams is so advantageous and abundant as to admit of the erection of any other branches of manufactory which may be thought eligible. On a part of the lands is an inexhaustible bank of Iron ore, equal, or superior in quality to any on the continent. The Iron Works are at present out of repair but might in a short time and at small expence be put in blast. The Manufacturing Grist and Saw Mills are lately repaired, and are now in complete order for business The times of sale will be made known and documents authenticating the title to the property with a plot of the lands and certificates of the quality of the ore will be shewn on application to Josiah Watson, jun. No. 43 North Third-street, Philadelphia, or the subscriber in Alexandria.

TAKE NOTICE,

THAT I am to be sold on such terms, that the purchaser need not advance any cash, unless he pleases, till it is earned by my services, provided no accident happens me; or, if you please, I am to be farmed out for two years, and not less. I am a bright bay, full 15½ hands high, of noble descent, my name is TRIMMER—I was got by Hall's imported horse Eclipse, my dam, purchased by Doctor Hall, was got by the imported horse Slim; my grand dam was got by Old Figure; my great grand dam by Taskers Othello out of Selima, &c. &c. as will more fully appear by William Lyle's attested certificate who raised me. My character as a racer is well established; I won the colt's purse at Bladensburg of twenty guineas; I won a fifty guinea purse at Baltimore, a fifty guinea purse at Annapolis and a fifty guinea purse at Hagerstown. I never lost a race but the last I run at Alexandria, which was owning to my being badly shod, as I lost all my plates before I got in. I am in fine plight, found in every respect; my offspring are in great repute, some of which are now in training for the turf—procure me good stands and entertainment and I am able to earn one thousand dollars per annum.

AN ACT

Respecting quarantines, and health laws.

BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the quarantines and other restraints, which shall be required and established by the health laws of any state, or pursuant thereto, respecting any vessels arriving in, or bound to, any port or district thereof, whether from a foreign port or place, or from another district of the United States, shall be duly observed by the collectors, and all other officers of the revenue of the United States, appointed and employed for the several collection districts of such state respectively, and by the masters and crews of the several revenue cutters, and by the military officers who shall command in any fort or station upon the sea coast; and all such officers of the United States shall be, and they hereby are, authorized and required, faithfully to aid in the execution of such quarantines and health laws, according to their respective powers and precincts, and as they shall be directed from time to time by the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. And the said Secretary shall be, and he hereby is authorized, when a conformity to such quarantines and health laws shall require it, and in respect to vessels which shall be subject thereto, to prolong the terms limited for the entry of the same, and the report or entry of their cargoes, and to vary or dispense with any other regulations applicable to such reports or entries: Provided, that nothing herein shall enable any state to collect a duty of tonnage or impost, without the consent of the Congress of the United States thereto: And provided, that no part of the cargo of any vessel shall, in any case, be taken out, or unladen therefrom, otherwise than as by law is allowed, or according to the regulations hereinafter established.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That when, by the health laws of any state, or by the regulations which shal be made pursuant thereto, any vessel arriving within a collection district of such state, shall be prohibited from coming to the port of entry or delivery by law established for such district, and it shall be required or permitted by such health-laws, that the cargo of such vessel shall or may be unladen at some other place within or near to such district, the collector auth rized therein, after due report to him of the whole of such cargo, may grant his especial warrant or permit for the unlading and discharge thereof, under the care of the surveyor, or of one or more inspectors, at some other place where such health laws shall permit, and upon the conditions and restrictions which shall be directed by the Secretary of the Treasury, or which such collector may, for the time, reasonably judge expedient for the security of the public revenue: Provided, that in every such case, all the articles of the cargo so to be unladen, shall be deposited, at the risk of the parties concerned therein, in such public or other ware-houses or inclosures, as the collector shall designate, there to remain under the joint custody of such collector, and of the owner or owners, or master, or other person having charge of such vessel, until the same shall be entirely unladen or discharged; and until the goods, wares or merchandize which shall be so deposited may be safely removed, without contravening such health laws; and when such removal may be allowed, the collector having charge of such goods, wares or merchandize, may grant permits to the respective owners or consignees, their factors or agents, to receive all goods, wares or merchandize, which shall be entered, and whereof the duties accruing shall be paid or secured, according to law, upon the payment by them of a reasonable rate of storeage, which shall be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury for all public ware-houses and inclosures.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be purchased or erected, under the orders of the President of the United States, suitable ware-houses, with wharves and inclosures, where goods and merchandize may be unladen and deposited, from any vessel which shall be subject to a quarantine, or other restraint, pursuant to the health laws of any state as aforesaid, at such convenient place or places therein, as the safety of the public revenue, and the observance of such health laws may require.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That when, by the prevalence of any contagious or epidemical disease, in or near the place by law established, as the port of entry for any collection district, it shall become dangerous or inconvenient for the collector and the other officers of the revenue employed therein, to continue the discharge of their respective offices at such port, the Secretary, or in his absence, the Comptroller of the Treasury of the United States, may direct and authorise the removal of the collector, and the other officers employed in his department, from such port, or any other more convenient place, within, or as near as may be to such collection district, where such collector and officers may exercise the same authorities, and shall be liable to the same duties, according to existing circumstances, as in such lawful port or district; and on such removal, public notice shall be given as soon as may be.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for the judge of any district court of the United States, within whose district any contagious or epidemical disease shall at any time prevail, so as in his opinion, to endanger the life or lives of any person or persons confined in the prison of such district, in pursuance of any law of the United States, to direct the marshal to cause the person or persons confined as aforesaid, to be removed to the next adjacent prison where such disease does not prevail, there to be confined, until he, she or they may be safely removed back to the place of their first confinement; which removals shall be at the expence of the United States.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That in case of the prevalence of a contagious or epidemical disease at the seat of government, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States to permit and direct the removal of any or all the public offices to such other place or places as, in his discretion, shall be deemed most safe and convenient for conducting the public business.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That whenever, in the opinion of the Chief Justice, or in case of his death, or inability of the senior Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, a contagious sickness shall render it hazardous to hold the next stated Session of the said court at the seat of government, it shall be lawful for the Chief, or such Associate Justice, to issue his order to the marshal of the district within which the Supreme Court is, by law, to be holden, directing him to adjourn the said session of the said court to such other place within the same, or an adjoining district, as he may deem convenient: and the said marshal shall thereupon adjourn the said court, by making publication thereof in one or more public papers printed at the place by law appointed for holding the same, from the time he shall receive such order, until the time by law prescribed for commencing the said session. And the District Judges shall, respectively, under the same circumstances, have the same power, by the same means, to direct adjournments of the District and Circuit Courts within their several districts, to some convenient place within the same respectively.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the act, intituled, "An act relative to quarantine," passed in the first session of the fourth Congress of the United States, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed.

NAPLES, November 1.

Our army is now in motion to occupy different positions. A great quantity of flints have been delivered for the use of the troops. The king commands in person a division of 30,000 men, and another serves under the orders of general Mack, under whom our Prince Royal commands. The head quarters are at St. Germain's. Our horse artillery has been lately greatly increased.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.

The army here having been reinforced with a considerable number of troops from different parts, the rebels here having been every where attacked with success, and we hope that tranquility will soon be restored. VIENNA, Nov. 17.

According to last accounts from Belgrade, fears were entertained there of a visit from Pasvan Oglou, who had advanced to the vicinity of that city. The Pacha of Belgrade had in consequence sent couriers to several of the neighbouring Pachas to require re-inforcements.

Appearances are again very warlike. The army of Mentz will again be called the army of the Rhine, and be augmented to 80,000 men. The French head quarters at now at Wilbaden, and will, it is said go with general Jourdan to Strasburg. The situation of Ehrenbreitsten becomes every day more critical.

MILAN, Nov. 19.

Before he set out, he left orders that the Austrian officers in the Cisalpine territory should leave it within eight days, and this city within 24 hours.

LONDON, December 17.

The LOAN was yesterday done at 2 per Cent. premium, which was attributed to the news from Grand Cairo.

Some time since the Arethusa, of 38 guns anchored in Havre Roads, and sent a flag of truce with some French prisoners to that port. The boat having been allowed to approach within half point blank shot, was fired on by the batteries, and several of the oars broken by a heavy discharge of grape shot.

Captain Wolley has written to the Directory and to the commandant at Havre, reprobating in strong terms the infamy of such conduct. Had their object been to prevent the approach of the boat, it might have been fully accomplished by firing a single shot a head; but there perhaps is not on record so criminal an infringement of the principles which nations denominated civilized, have heretofore held sacred.

CONGRESS,

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Suspension of Intercourse with France.

Friday January 25.

In committee of the whole, on the bill further to suspend our commercial intercourse with France, the motion of Mr. Gallatin to strike out the remainder of the fifth section being under consideration,

Mr. Sewall said he had heard no reason given for the striking out of this section which had any weight upon his mind. It is no more than the exercise of a right which every commercial country possesses of regulating its commerce in such a manner as appears to be for their interest. It is an internal, and not an external regulation, which does not affect any other country, except incidentally. The countries alluded to have regulated their commerce in the most arbitrary manner with respect to us; when they chuse to receive our flour or salt provisions, they say so, but this is only when it suits their convenience. Nor is this ever considered by us as a cause of offence; on the contrary, we have always considered ourselves as bound to submit to them. This be tho't a sufficient argument against all that had been said as to this regulation being a cause of offence.

Mr. S. would, however, if he were not prevented by the present motion, move to exclude the cases of building, repairing or equipping of vessels in the ports described in this section. These, he thought, ought not to be considered as causes of offence. Besides, in such cases it would be found impossible to execute the law, as it would be impossible to ascertain for what purpose vessels are building. The law would, therefore, be constantly evaded; but there is a case which ought to be considered as offensive to us, and which ought to be prevented. He meant the refitting of vessels captured by French privateers, in Spanish and Dutch ports, which is not allowed by the law of nations; and if such practices are sanctioned by treaty, it is a treaty injurious to us; and the party having made it, must take their choice, whether they will abide by such stipulations, and lose our commerce, or give up their treaty and accept of our trade.

Mr. S. believed, if practices of the kind he had mentioned were prevented, the others would also cease, as if the French were not allowed to resit their prizes, they would not carry them into those islands.

Mr. S. Smith said he meant to have risen for the purpose of proposing an amendment of the kind which the gentleman from Massachusetts had mentioned; and he trusted the gentleman from Pennsylvania would have the candor to withdraw his motion for the purpose of admitting this amendment, as he might afterwards move to strike out the section, if he did not like it. That gentleman seemed to found his principal objection to the section on its possibly affecting New-Orleans; but when he recollected that that port could never become a resort for privateers, as they could not, with any sort of convenience, get up to it, he hoped his objection to the section on this account would be done away. This law would principally apply to the ports of the Havanna, which are easy of access, and which are constantly used as harbors for privateers on our commerce. Boats, said he, lie under the Moro Castle, and when our vessels pass by, they row out and carry them in, and frequently proceed to sell them without trial, since issue of a trial under the government of Hedouville was not quite so certain, as it was under Santhonax. Mr. S. said he had himself suffered in this way, one of his vessels having been carried in and sold without trial.

The question for striking out the section was put and negatived 49 to 28.

Mr. Sewall then proposed his amendment for confining the operation of the bill to places to which our vessels captured by French privateers shall be allowed to be sent or carried in, and there condemned or sold.—Carried.

On suggestion of Mr. Eggleston, Mr. Sewall introduced an amendment, providing due notice to be given in cases of proclamations for the suspension of intercourse.

The bill having been gone through,

Mr. Eggleston renewed the motion which he yesterday moved at a time when it could not be admitted, proposing that neutral vessels might be hired for the purpose of carrying our commerce. It was negatived, 21 votes only being for it.

On motion of Mr. S. Smith, the limitation clause was amended, so as to confine the operation of this law to the 3d of March, 1800.

The committee then rose, and the house took up the amendments which had been agreed to.

Mr. Nicholas renewed his motion to strike out the whole of the fifth section, and called the yeas and nays upon it.

Mr. S. Smith complained of this motion as placing members in an awkward situation. He was against the section as it originally stood, but in favor of it as amended.

Mr. Gallatin said, there could be no kind of inconvenience in taking the question in this way. If the gentleman from Maryland is satisfied with the section as proposed to be amended, he will, of course, vote against the motion to strike it out. Mr. G. said he meant to vote in favor of striking out the section, because he did not approve of it as amended. In the first place, it is no breach of the law of nations to allow the sale of prizes within neutral ports. Gentlemen have said, we may limit our commercial intercourse as we please. This, he allowed, might be done, where treaties are not in the way; but in relation to Holland, we are bound by treaties to receive them upon the same terms with the most favored nation, we have therefore no right to interdict our commerce with that nation, except they commit some act either contrary to the stipulations of our treaty, or in breach of the law of nations. But, for permitting American vessels to be sold in their ports, we have not a right to break our treaty with them; and though the Spanish and Dutch islands in the West-Indies, do receive or restrain our commerce at their will, they only act towards us as they act towards other nations. But this bill does not apply to the West-Indies alone; it will apply to Amsterdam as well as Curracoa; and if any vessel or ours shall be sold as a prize at Amsterdam, the President will be authorized to interdict our commerce to Amsterdam. If, said Mr. G. we are to go to war with France, he saw no reason why we should break our treaty with Holland, because they do no act which is not a breach of the law of nations. Till the British treaty, we had permitted British prizes to be sold in our ports, and we had, by the law of nations, a right to do it or not; and Holland has the same right with respect to French prizes. Mr. G. agreed it would be for our interest that our vessels should not be sold as prizes in the ports of Holland; but it cannot be allowable to say, because this is the case, we will break our treaty with that nation. No nation ever yet complained of a practice of this kind. If this bill had only relation to those Dutch and Spanish ports in the West-Indies, which receive or refuse to receive our commerce, at their pleasure, he would not have objected to it.

The port of New-Orleans, Mr G. said, would be included within the operation of this bill. That port is in a peculiar situation, as by our treaty with Spain, it is in fact rendered an American port, to or from which we cannot be admitted or expelled at pleasure. The Spaniards have agreed to give it to us for a number of years; and if, at the end of that period they do not chuse to continue to us that port, they engage to give us another, equally well suited for our purpose; and to give the President the power to suspend the intercourse of the western country with New Orleans, would be much the same thing as to give him a power to suspend the intercourse betwixt Albany and New-York; because New-Orleans is to Pittsburgh what New-York is to Albany.

Mr G. would be glad if the operation of the bill could be confined to ports in the West-Indies, because, since they only receive our vessels when they please, there would be some justice, and we have a right to do it, in making this regulation with respect to them.—But he did not wish the provision to extend to Europe, since it is well known that the governments of Spain and Holland are well disposed towards this country.

Mr. S. Smith said it was perfectly absurd to suppose that New Orleans could ever be affected by this clause, since it never could become a place for the resort of privateers.—Privateers, he said, might as well be carried up to Pittsburgh, as New-Orleans.

Mr. W. Claiborne said, he did not believe that the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Smith.) was accurately informed as to the situation of New Orleans. Mr C. had no personal knowledge of that port, but a reputable character had told him, that it was excessible to privateers, and that several prizes had been brought there, during the last summer, but he did not suppose, that the practice would be pursued.

Mr C. said, he was in favour of striking out the section; he saw no necessity for ceding to the President such general powers—on the contrary, the cession appeared to him highly improper. If the clause was retained the President might by a single dash of his pen, destroy the commerce of the western country, and this interest, Mr C. said he was too tenacious of, to consent to transfer a power of this kind, to any Executive. The river Mississippi, was the only commercial road now opened to Tennessee and Kentucky, and thro' the dominions of Spain, their exports were necessitated to pass. If the President then should forbid an intercourse with the Spanish ports on the Mississippi the surplus produce of the western farmers would remain on their hands, and the rising prosperity of the western states greatly checked. Mr. C. said he might be told, that from the great discernment, prudence and patriotism of the President, an improper use of power need not be apprehended; but he was of opinion, that a power improper to be exercised, ought not to be conceded; and surely no gentleman will contend, that a intercourse with Spain, should at this time be suspended. How far this clause may affect the commerce of the Atlantic States, he was not sufficiently informed on the subject, to hazard an opinion. It appeared to him, however that the American trade was already sufficiently shackled. Mr. C. could not approbate the practice of conceding so much to Executive discretion; of the motives of the President, he had no doubt; he believed them to be strictly virtuous; but the President, from the nature of things, must frequently act upon the information of others, which in misdirecting his judgment, might injure the public interest.

If there are any neutral ports, to which our commerce should be prohibited, let gentlemen name the places, and if their reasons for a suspension of our intercourse with such places, were good, no doubt but their wish would be obtained. But Mr. C. was unwilling to throw all the responsibility upon this head, upon the President, where duties cares and responsibility are already sufficiently various and great.

The yeas and nays were then taken, and the motion negatived 53 to 36.

The question was then taken upon the amendments to the 5th section, on which Mr. S. Smith called the yeas and nays. The question was carried, Mr. Dent only being in the negative.

Mr. W. Claiborne moved a proviso to prevent this law operating to suspend the commerce of the western country by the Mississippi, the yeas and nays were taken, and the motion was carried 55 to 34.

Mr. S. Smith said, in order to meet the wishes of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, he would move the following words, viz; "On the continent of America"; so as to exclude the operation of this act from European ports.

The motion was negatived 45 to 41 and then the bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

The virulent and billingsgate abuse of young Mr. Gallagher, by Collot d' Herbois, has already excited the indignation of every man in the community, who possesses one spark of decency. It remains for them to know, (what they will find little difficulty in believing) that the same bully who could from an eminence, so bravely scatter his filth upon a gentleman, had the meanness and cowardice to make to his friend, when called out, a most humiliating apology and concession.

A gentleman, with a horse-whip in his hand, observed, the other day, a filthy, squalid and villainous looking wretch, muffled up in a great cloak, fleeing before him, like a thief from the hands of justice: from the description, it was very probably Dwight, one of the editors of the Lucifer. Conscience frequently knocks thus at the hearts of villains, and even visits them inwardly with those terrors, which a sense of guilt infallibly produces.

An idea has gone forth, amongst a certain class of men, who are always for making every thing yield to the expediency of the moment, that the new emhassy to France is founded, less on the calculation of any honorable result, than on the idea of turning the tables upon her; of giving the lie to her pacific professions; and that this issue, which they think of sufficient importance to justify the measure, will produce unanimity in the war which must at last succeed. Amazing folly! astonishing obstinacy and blindness! Has not experience, in two full instances, foreclosed every hope of the kind? Can the villains who reign in France, heap keener insults upon us than they have done? Or, if they can, are not our democrats stupid enough and base enough to justify them all? When we foolishly expected from them a confession of the base part they had acted, and an acknowledgment that the demand by France of a tribute from their own country had awakened them from their infatuation, did they not say, "You ought to have paid the Tribute"? If the raggamuffins of the fauxbourg St. Antboine could be transported into America, it would be just as rational to expect to infuse an honorable sentiment on the wrongs of the country, into them, as it is to entertain hopes of the democrats. Absurdly as such a calculation strikes us, prima facie, the deeper reflection we bestow on it, the more it swells before us the inflation of empty delusion and folly. And yet its authors pretend to respect for the President! If the President had no truer friends, no abler supporters, no wiser counsellors than they, he would indeed be a solitary man.

This tame and time-serving temper, which so dearly loves to hope against hope, and to murder the precious hours for action, (which are so rapidly hastening from us, never to be recalled) in heaping proof upon proof, where every thing is already proved to redundancy, assimilates our character to that of a doating Cornuto, who fears to believe what he hears and what he knows.

The coalition has already commenced its revolutionary career, and the once imperial mistress of the world, a noble prize! has already bowed before its first essay. The "ermined monsters," the "sceptered bullies" of the earth, advance in marche victorieuse to retrieve mankind from the iron-handed oppression of Republicanism; and those very potentates, whom every wind maligned, are looked up to as the sole redressers of wrongs, and the avengers of the injuries and miseries of mankind.

I heard two Democratic Jack Asses braying yesterday against the French—one of them had lost an adventure, and the other a policy of insurance.

The joy of old Autun (who, I believe, rests just now some where about the borders of Pilegethon) at finding us thrown off our natural and only strong ground, must be equal to that of a miser on discovering a hidden treasure.

"There are tides" says Shakespeare, "in the affairs of men." So, also, it appears, are there flaws and gusts. Nothing is less difficult than to find when the wind blows the right way, and to fill all sail to it; but a sudden flaw may overset the ship before any body knows any thing about it.

Le temps present est gros de l'avenir.

Some enterprize of pith and moment against America even now proceeds; and with propriety may we say, "watch! watch! for we know not the hour when the fiend of dissension cometh." The French, having made considerable advancement in their preparations for invading England, sent over an invitation to that government to treat, hoping thereby to occasion some relaxation in the vigor of their resistance. During the whole time, that the negociation was so frivolously protracted, they bent their exertions wholly to maturing the invasion. Of the government which could be guilty of such baseness as this, ought we not to entertain the most watchful apprehensions?

Counsellor Fidget thinks thinks Talleyrand will at last make peace. So do I; and his masters will keep it, too,——until they are ready for us. Circumstances enough have occurred, to indicate an intention on the part of France, to pass our grist through her revolutionary mill, as a reparation for her long and grievous distresses. She views us as a sponge, which she only presses lightly for the present, reserving us for some future and more exigent emergency. If her present pressure, is light what must be that which is to come? And what has occured to alter her views towards this country? She has declined elsewhere: therefore we become more decidedly an object of prey.

Doctor Log it appears did not go to France for nothing—Brute as he is, he seems to have understood the art of peace-making: we never doubted what he went to do; but never till now has it fully appeared what he did do.

If the President of the Directory should not think it worth his while to send any assurances of his wish to make peace with us, (and have we any grounds to expect that he will?) in how dignified a posture shall we then stand!

"I hope we shall remember that the Tyger crouches before he leaps upon his prey." We remembered it three weeks or more.

The author of the apostrophe to Talleyrand, is requested to come and take it away: It is not very decent to abuse the good man when he's busied in pacifying us; besides there's a very deep bathos in the four first lines, as witness,

"Ruin seize thee! ruthless fiend!
"Confusion on thy falsehoods wait
"Tho' fann'd by flatt'ry's downy wing,
"They knock in vain, at wisdom's gate."

The President this day communicated to Congress, a report on the naval concerns of the United States; from which it appears that, since the 9th July, 1798, the following private armed Merchantships have been fitted out from the different ports of the Union; viz.

365 vessels carrying 66,691 60-95 tons, mounting 2,723 guns, and the crews amounting to 6,847 men.

To the Members of the Synod of Philadelphia.

BRETHREN,

THE Synod of Philadelphia, at their annual meeting in May last, adjourned to meet in the city of Philadelphia in May 1799, in the full expectation and belief that the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church would be convened in said city, at the same time. But after the Synod had broken up, it was determined that the next meeting of the Assembly should be at the town of Winchester, in the state of Virginia. From this circumstance, the duty of attending on the highest indicature of our Church, has become incompatible with an attendance on Synod, at the time to which it stands adjourned; so that, if a meeting of the Synod should then take place, the delegates to the Assembly would be deprived of the privilege of being present at it. In consideration of these circumstances, and of the opinion and advice of many members of the Synod explicitly signified to me, on this subject. I do hereby give notice that the Synod of Philadelphia will not meet in May next; but that it is further adjourned till the third Tuesday of May, which will be in the year of our Lord 1800, then to meet in the second Presbyterian church in this city of Philadelphia, at eleven o'clock, A. M.

JOHN DAVENPORT,
Mod'r of Sy. of Philad'a.

March 1st, 1799.

The Printers of Newspapers in the States of Pennsylvania and Maryland will highly oblige the Synod of Philadelphia by inserting the above in their papers.

NEW-YORK, MARCH 1.

From the Merchantile Daily Advertiser.

A circumstance occurred yesterday, which has highly excited the attention of the public.

Conformably to our duty, we have taken considerable pains to procure as correct information on the subject, as could be obtained. We believe the following outlines are pretty correct.

A person in this city had a small demand against one of the hands (we believe the steward) of the British Packet Chesterfield; and as the latter refused payment, alledged of its not being justly owing, the creditor procured a capias from the court, which one of the marshals was directed to execute. Capt. Jones refused to suffer the execution of the arrest, and threatened the marshal in case he should persist.

The officer came ashore, and lodged this complaint with the proper authority who ordered capt Jones to be arrested for his interference to prevent the execution of the laws.

Upon his arrest. he ordered the colours of his ship to be struck, and the mail to be sunk, which were done. The packet was just preparing for her departure.

Capt. Jones left this city yesterday afternoon for Philidelphia.

MAYOR'S OFFICE
REMOVED to 157 South Second-Street.

Our administration ought never to have lost sight of that deep observation of the celebrated Mallet du Pan:

"However variable may be the French system, in its metamorphoses or modifications, its principle is fixed and immutable. It is in that principle alone that it seeks for revolution. The essence of that revolution is inconsistent with every thing that does exist, has existed, or ever shall exist. Before this great object shall fall all jealousy, emulation, hatred; in a word, all those wretched complaints, which six years of common misery have not been sufficient to remove."

☞ An Eulogium on the late Dr. SAMUEL COOPER, will be delivered before the Philadelphia Medical Society, on Monday next, at 12 o'clock, in the Hall of the University, by Dr. Charles Caldwell; at which the public are invited to attend.

GEORGE LEE, secretary.

Building and Garden Lots,
CONTIGUOUS to, and at a small distance from the city, to be sold at the coffee house in Second street, on Wednesday the 20th of March, at 6 o'clock in the evening, containing from about 1-4 of an acre to about 4 acres each. The small lots fronting on Vine and Callowhill streets, on the west side of Schuylkill Second street, and the large lots containing whole or half or quarter squares, some of them bounded on the west by Schuylkill and the upper ferry road including some fine quarry lots on Schuylkill: the whole containing about 140 acres, and formerly known by the name of Springsbury; bounded on the north by Francis street, extending from the Ridge road to Schuylkill, crossing the canal, on which several of the lots will give fronts.

The situation of many of the large lots is on high ground, commanding beautiful views of the Schuylkill, supposed to be sufficiently detached to escape any unfortunate disorder which may be prevalent in the city.—The terms will be made known at the time of the sale.

N B. Maps of the lots are fixed up at the middle and upper ferries on Schuylkill, at the sign of the President, in Second street, Northern Liberties; at Ogdens tavern in Chesnut street, and at the coffee house.

The convenience of stone so near the premises will prove very advantageous to purchasers.

This Day is Publiſhed,
AND FOR SALE BY J. FENNO, 119, CHESNUT-STREET
AN ADDRESS
To the People of Maryland,
ON the origin, progreſs and preſent ſtate of French aggreſſion, with a ſketch of the infamous attempts to degrade the Government of the United States, and ſome reflections on the late proceedings in Congreſs; written the laſt of April in the preſent year, by a Member of the Houſe of Repreſentatives. § june 11

WHEREAS,
BY an Act of Congreſs paſſed on the ſixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety eight, the Preſident of the United States is authoriſed to borrow on behalf of the United States from the Bank of the United States, or from any other body or bodies politic or corporate, or from any perſon or perſons, and upon ſuch terms and conditions as he ſhall judge moſt advantageous for the United States, a ſum not exceeding five millions of dollars, ſo however, that no contract or engagement be made which ſhall preclude the United States from reimburſing any ſum or ſums borrowed at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of ſuch loan. And whereas, it is declared by the ſaid Act, that ſo much as may be neceſſary of the ſurplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, ſhall be pledged and appropriated for paying the intereſt, and alſo for paying and diſcharging the principal ſum or ſums of all the monies which may be borrowed, according to the term or terms which may be fixed, purſuant to the authority aforeſaid—And whereas by the ſaid Act, the faith of the United States is pledged to eſtabliſh ſufficient permanent Revenues for making up any deficiency that may hereafter appear in the proviſions before-mentioned for paying the intereſt and principal ſums, or either of them, of any monies which may be borrowed purſuant to the ſaid Act. And whereas the Preſident of the United States did by an Act or Commiſſion under his hand dated the ninth day of January in the year one thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety nine, authoriſe and empower, the Secretary of the Treaſury, to borrow on behalf of the United States, any ſum not exceeding in the whole, five millions of dollars and to make ſuch contract or contracts as ſhould be neceſſary, and for the intereſt of the United States, in purſuance of the Act of Congreſs above recited.
Now therefore, the underſigned, Secretary of the Treaſury, in purſuance of the Act of Congreſs, and the authority from the Preſident of the United States, above mentioned, doth hereby on behalf of the United States of America, contract and engage in manner following, to wit.
1ſt. A book for receiving ſubſcriptions to a Loan of five millions of dollars for the uſe of the United States ſhall be opened in the city of Philadelphia, at the Bank of the United States on Thurſday the twenty eighth day of February enſuing, which book ſhall continue open for the purpoſe of receiving ſubſcriptions, until the whole of the ſaid five millions of dollars ſhall be ſubſcribed. If more than five millions of dollars ſhall be ſubſcribed on the firſt day of opening the ſaid loan, the ſurplus ſhall be deducted in propertion to the ſums ſubſcribed by individuals, exceeding four thouſand dollars.
2d. For every hundred dollars which may be ſubſcribed there ſhall be forthwith depoſited and paid the ſum of twelve dollars and fifty cents, and like payments of twelve dollars and fifty cents, ſhall be made within the firſt ten days of the months of April, May, June, July, Auguſt September and October enſuing. The Secretary of the Treaſury however reſerves the right of reducing the number of inſtallments by ſpecial agreements, with the individuals who may become ſubſcribers.
3d. On the failure of payment of any inſtallment of the ſums ſubſcribed according to the tenor of the ſecond article, the next preceeding inſtallment of twelve dollars and fifty cents, which ſhall have been paid, for every hundred dollars ſubſcribed ſhall be forfeited to the United States.
4th, The ſums ſubſcribed ſhall and may be paid to the credit of the United States, at the Bank of the United States, or at the offices of diſcount and depoſit of the ſaid Bank at Boſton, New-York, Baltimore, or Charleſton, or at either of the Banks of Salem, in Maſſachuſetts, Newport and Providence in Rhode-Iſland, Hartford in Connecticut, Albany in New-York, or Alexandria in Virginia, for which payments, the receipts of the Caſhiers of the Offices of Diſcount and Depoſit and of the Banks aforeſaid ſhall be received at the Bank of the United States as equivalent to money; but no payment of a ſubſequent inſtallment ſhall be received at any other place than that where the firſt inſtallment was paid, except at the Bank of the United States; in caſe any depoſits ſhall be made at the offices of Diſcount or Depoſit, or at either of the Banks aforeſaid, which ſhall not be applied to the payment of the firſt inſtallment of ſubſcriptions to the Loan aforeſaid, the ſaid depoſits ſhall be forthwith refunded by directions from the Treaſury.
5th. For the ſums or number of ſhares of one hundred dollars, which may be ſubſcribed, certificates ſhall be given by the Caſhier of the Bank of the United States, which ſhall be aſſignable by indorſement, and delivery of the parties in whoſe favour the ſaid certificates may be iſſued, until the completion of the payments required by the tenor of the ſecond article preceeding.
6th. The ſums ſubſcribed and paid in purſuance of the tenor of the ſecond article preceeding, ſhall after the ſaid payments have been compleated, conſtitute a funded capital ſtock diviſible into ſhares of one hundred dollars each, which capital ſtock ſhall bear intereſt at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the times fixed for the payment of the reſpective inſtallments payable quarter yearly at the Treaſury of the United States, or at the Loan Offices where the ſame may ſtand credited, until the laſt day of December, in the year one thouſand eight hundred and eight.
7th. After the laſt day of December in the ſaid year one thouſand eight hundred and eight, and after reaſonable notice to the creditors, which ſhall be given by an advertiſement in ſome public newſpaper, printed at the ſeat of the government of the United States, the ſaid capital ſtock ſhall be redeemable at the pleaſure of the United States by the reimburſement of the whole ſum or ſums borrowed, and which may conſtitute the ſaid capital ſtock either at the treaſury of the United States or at the loan offices where the ſame may ſtand credited.
8th. The credits for the ſaid capital ſtock ſhall and may be ſeparately certified in ſums either for one hundred, four hundred, one thouſand, four thouſand or ten thouſand dollars, and the credits ſo certified ſhall be tranſferable by the creditors, or their attornies, at the Treaſury and Loan Offices reſpectively, in purſuance of the rules which have been, or which may be eſtabliſhed relative to the tranſfer of the funded ſtock of the United States.
9th. A ſufficient ſum of the ſurplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, together with the faith of the United States are hereby pledged for the fulfillment of this contract, in purſuance of, and according to the terms and conditions of the act of Congreſs herein before recited.
Given under my hand and the ſeal of the Treaſury of the United States at Philadelphia, this twelfth day of January one thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety nine.
(L. S.)
OLIVER WOLCOTT,
Secretary of the Treaſury.
